Spring is here, with vibrant energy and a renewed sense of freedom. After months of winter hibernation, we eagerly embrace the arrival of warmer days and the opportunity to immerse ourselves in the fresh and light palette of spring colours.

Introducing the Coster Copenhagen Spring 2024 collection, aptly named 'Fashion is Art.'

The fashion and art worlds have always been linked together, in a fusion where they are ever inspired by each other. Just as fashion and art are a mirror of the world surrounding us and the ever-evolving society and the culture in which we thrive. The "Fashion is Art" collection captures the zeitgeist within this creative space with artistic designs and vibrant colours.

In this collection, you will find a delightful fusion of utility wear, casual essentials and feminine silhouettes. We have carefully curated each piece, keeping in mind the changing temperatures of spring and the desire for versatility.

The colour palette is a symphony of fresh and invigorating tones. Aqua blue and lavender purple evokes a sense of tranquillity and serenity. Beige tones and soft greys bring a touch of sophistication. For those seeking a bolder statement, berry colours and bright orange add an unexpected pop of energy, celebrating the season's spirit.

As you explore the Spring 2024 collection by Coster Copenhagen, allow your senses to be awakened by the fusion of fashion and art.

Discover the joy of self-expression, where fashion becomes a canvas and you become the artist.

PIA COSTER

Founder & Creative Director

CSR and sustainability have been a part of Coster Copenhagen's DNA right from the start. With the impending pressure of the climate crisis, we must act. That is why we have started from scratch and mapped out all our groundwork. To guide us in the right direction, we have chosen to work with four of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. These goals are: 12 Responsible consumption and production, 13 Climate action, 15 Life on land & 17 Partnerships for the goals.

We care for you and for our planet, and want to share our sustainable choices with you. Below, you can find more information about the materials, we use in this collection.

SEAWOOL

Seawool is one of the newest methods when it comes to creating sustainable materials. The name derives from its 99% comparability to wool. Seawool possesses many of the same qualities as well, as it too is heat-regulating, self-cleansing and is nice and soft without being scratchy. Seawool is made from recycled plastic bottles and surplus oyster shells – hence the reference to the sea in the name, Seawool.

RECYCLED ACRYLIC

Acrylic is a material which has a wool-like feel. Acrylic is very durable when cared for properly. Acrylic enables for a lightweight knit. Acrylic can be reused many times if processed correctly. This allows for the life cycle for garments containing acrylic to be much longer and helps lower the need for disposal of the products.

ECOVERO LENZING VISCOSE

EcoVero Lenzing viscose is produced by the Austrian company Lenzing Group. EcoVero Lenzing viscose is a branded fibre with a certified lower environmental impact. It is made from sustainable wood and paper pulp from certified and controlled sources. EcoVero Lenzing viscose carries the EU Ecolabel as EcoVero Lenzing viscose generates up to 50% lower carbon emissions and water impact than generic viscose.

RECYCLED POLYESTER

Polyester tends to have a bad reputation due to its manufacturing of plastic and high environmental impact. However, the many benefits of polyester also tend to be forgotten. It is a very durable fibre, which is both strong and resistant and it can be reused many times if the process is done correctly. This makes the life cycle for polyester garments much longer and helps lower the need for disposal of the products.

CUPRO

Cupro is a bi-product of cotton production and helps lower the environmental impact of cotton production, as more of the cotton plant is being used instead of discarded. However, the construction of cupro requires the use of chemicals. These chemicals are used in a closed circuit and do not harm any ecosystems surrounding the production site.
